

From Human to Super-Human

Evolution does not always proceed on a smooth incline. Sometimes, there are jolts, when everything changes in a short time. In this century, we will witness one of those moments: the leap from human to super-human. The catalyst for this event is a game-changing scientific breakthrough. It is called ACTIVEITEM™.

ACTIVEITEM™ encapsulates a history that runs thousands of years into the past. It points to a future that seemed impossible a short while ago, but is now excitingly real. ACTIVEITEM™ heralds a new age—the age of the super-human.

Hidden from History

The dream of the super-human is as old as the human race itself. The great mythic sagas of the past are studied with heroes possessing astonishing powers. With the birth of modern medicine, this dream attracted a new breed of adventurers, bent on transforming an ancient hope into living reality. Among them, none were more brilliant, or more determined, than the scientific elite of the Soviet Union. Hidden behind the iron curtain, they assembled and tested a body of knowledge that marked the frontier to a new age of human possibilities.

As the Soviet Union collapsed, much of this remarkable knowledge disappeared, or was dispersed across the world, carried by refugees from the chaos of a failed regime. A few individuals preserved and protected what they knew. Fewer still continued in exile the work their Soviet colleagues had begun.

One of those unstoppable pioneers was Dr. X, who migrated to the United States in the early 1980s, taking nothing from decades of research but what he held in his own mind. Dr. X had achieved a rare place of honor in the old Soviet medical hierarchy. He was the youngest of the leading doctors serving the Soviet Olympic team. The Olympians were a source of enormous national pride inside the Soviet Union — and a vital weapon in the ideological war with the West. For decades, scientists had labored to turn their top athletes into super-humans. As the world watched the Soviets sweep up more and more medals (103 in 1960 Olympics alone), it became clear their work was paying off.

What the Soviets had tapped into was the power of stem cells.

Stem Cells: Life at the Source

Stem cells are nature's key to limitless health, and limitless life. Very simply, they are cells that are pure potential, with no specific function until they are assigned one. Stem cells are the joker in nature's pack: they can stand for any card that's needed. Stem cells are how we all begin in the womb, until the miraculous process of differentiation provides us with organs, bones, tissue, and brains. They are most populous in the prenatal statue: in the embryo itself, but also in the amniotic fluid, the placenta and the umbilicus.

There are stem cells in the adult body, too. Their healing power is astonishing: they will rush to the site of an injury, and fashion themselves to replace damaged cells. Sadly, as we age, our own stem cells lose their vigor.

Throughout history, going back thousands of years, a small group of healers have stumbled on the power of stem cells, without knowing what they were. They have used extracts from the placenta, or the umbilical cord, to create remarkable results. Some have even discovered that these healing benefits are “tissue specific, not species specific” — tissue can be transported from animal to man, and still perform perfectly.

However, it was the Soviets, and particularly the sports scientists, who grasped the true potential of this natural resource. The astonishing successes they achieved were almost entirely based on the use of stem cells.

In more recent years, Western science has made rapid progress with stem cell medicine. Today, that progress is accelerating almost monthly as one breakthrough after another is published in the journals and then broadcast to the press. All of us are waking up to the fact that medicine could be totally transformed in a generation by the application of these new discoveries. Instead of organ transplants, we can expect patients to grow new organs. In place of prosthetics, they could even be growing new limbs. Stem cells are nature’s way of giving us the ability to start afresh, using raw undifferentiated cells to create whatever is needed.

A Safer Solution

Dr. X’s work is the pursuit of the super-human: enabling healthy individuals to go beyond the astonishing potential all of us carry within us, to develop a completely different level of performance: nothing less than super-human abilities.

He built on the cumulative research of previous generations of Soviet scientists to create his own quantum leap discoveries. But, he also took away from the USSR some burning questions: he saw that the experiments with athletes had not been without cost to the participants. He wondered: is there a problem with using human stem cells for human beings when we know that animal stem cells can serve just as well?

Dr. X recognized a fundamental problem in using human stem cells. These cells might be hiding genetic disorders that have not produced symptoms for several generations. Yet the defect could suddenly erupt in the recipient and it would be too late to reverse. His solution was to turn to animals as a source, knowing that nature does not differentiate between species in the design of the stem cell.

Animals have shorter lifespans and their breeding can be controlled. This means that it’s possible to account for a genetic line as far as several generations back, sufficient to ensure the safety of the stem cells. Dr. X chose a particular; strictly regulated US based sheep farms for his source, and began developing an intensive program of research and development. The next step was to isolate “pluripotent” stem cells—the type that have unlimited adaptability to serve different functions. Finally came the application of lyophilization, or freeze-drying, to ensure the preservation of the cells’ vitality right through to ingestion by the user.

The Breakthrough: ACTIVEITEM™

The combination of a career spent with the top Soviet scientists, followed by decades of intensive original research, led to a breakthrough on a scale that is rare in any science. Dr. X named his creation “ACTIVEITEM” to emphasize the unique contribution of stem cells, not only in his own product but in all the work of earlier pioneers in this field. ACTIVEITEM™ is a product of unprecedented power. So intense are their effects that people over the age of 50 are suggested to take on ACTIVEITEM™ capsule every other day. The stem cells that proliferate through the body trigger a “reverse aging” that would simply overwhelm an older person. But for those in their prime, the promise of ACTIVEITEM™ is breathtaking.*

ACTIVEITEM™ unleashes the total restorative power of stem cells throughout the body, supporting the regeneration of every aging organ, structure, tissue or cell.* This is what makes the ancient promise of creating a super-human a reality. Pluripotent stem cells have a remarkable natural tendency to seek every point in the body where there is routine age-related degeneration, and begin their restorative work. Ultimately, this leads to an overhaul of your entire physical system—which of course impacts your mental and emotional condition, too.*

The Benefits of ACTIVEITEM™

ACTIVEITEM™ is for individuals driven to exceed the maximum possible performance in every area of life.* If you are someone who accepts no limits on what you can experience, and what you can accomplish, these are just some of the benefits you can anticipate from ACTIVEITEM™:

- Extraordinary energy levels*
- Elevated endurance*
- Increased physical prowess*
- Boundless sexual vitality*
- Rapid recovery from workouts*
- Superior cognitive function*
- Healthy and youthful metabolism*
- An overall joy in life*

*These statements have not been evaluated by the Food and Drug Administration. This product is not intended to diagnose, treat, cure, or prevent any disease.

Being a whole body supplement, ACTIVEITEM™ potentially replaces every supplement you might be currently taking, because it allows nature to take full command of your body's systems, without further external help."

Enjoy Complete Safety

Whenever a single product releases such power, there is bound to be concern about safety. ACTIVEITEM™ is safe first and foremost because it draws on a wellspring that has always been present in nature, and already operates in every human body to a limited degree. The innovation of ACTIVEITEM™ is to remove the barriers to full realization of a natural potential.*

In particular, with ACTIVEITEM™, Dr. X has been able to increase the efficacy of the product to the maximum level. He carefully selects closely monitored colonies of sheep to source this precious solo ingredient.

Everything about the product is designed to protect the user's safety first, from the highest quality vegetarian capsules to a manufacturing process that is certified in the US at a pharmaceutical level.

A Community of High Performers

There are many ways ACTIVEITEM™ could have been introduced to the world, but Dr. X has developed a unique approach. His vision is to create a community of users, a social network of high-achieving individuals who embrace not only the product ACTIVEITEM™, but also a mindset that demands the absolute highest performance in every area. By inspiring and supporting each other, the member of this community will naturally spread the word about the extraordinary benefits they are receiving.

With this approach comes a simple business model: an opportunity for ACTIVEITEM™ users to earn income by sharing the product with others. Dr. X has collaborated with the leading consultants in the direct sales industry to craft a system that offers lucrative rewards for referrals. Some people will simply wish to make occasional referrals, while others can build a thriving ACTIVEITEM™ business, by helping create new networks of enthusiast users. The focus, Dr. X insists, will always be the product itself, and the community of life-transformers who will celebrate its benefits together.

These statements have not been evaluated by the Food and Drug Administration. This product is not intended to diagnose, treat, cure, or prevent any disease.

What to Do Next

If you are under 50, in good health, desire to make your fantasies into realities and transform yourself into a superior human being—consider using ACTIVEITEM™ for yourself.

If you know others with similar desires, then you are welcome to apply for a place in the ACTIVEITEM™ network of independent affiliates. There has rarely, if ever, been an opportunity to make such a dramatic impact on your own life, and the lives of others, with a single product. Rescued from the shadows of Soviet science, and fully developed by a brilliant mind, ACTIVEITEM™ promises to make true for you the dream of ancient myths: life as a super-human.
